Parkinson's Disease: Potential new protocols or treatment for levodopa- induced dyskinesia in people with Parkinson's

Welcome Dr. Camila Henriques de Aquino

Clinical Fellow, Toronto Western Hospital
(University of Toronto)

Come and meet Dr. Camila Henriques de Aquino, one of the 2014 Pedaling for Parkinson's Research Grant recipients. Listen to Dr. Aquino describe her research that involves the development of a new protocol, using intravenous levodopa, for measuring the severity of dyskinesia and efficacy of anti-dyskinesia medication. She is also performing deep brain stimulation in people with Parkinson's disease.

Parkinson's Disease: The Relevance of Pre-Motor Symptoms in Parkinson's Disease

Welcome Dr. Naomi Visanji

Toronto Western Hospital

Come and meet Dr. Naomi Visanji and listen to her describe the current state of research regarding the relevance of the pre-motor symptoms of Parkinson's disease. Identifying individuals at the earliest stage will likely be critical to preventing the pathological progression of Parkinson's, highlighting the relevance of pre-motor symptoms, in the future treatment of the disease.
